DR. E. V. MORROW HONORED BY KING

FORMER KLAMATH FALLS PHYSICIAN, NOW IN WAR ZONE, IS DECORATED WITH THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD

PORTLAND, March 13.—According to a wire received last evening by Dr. J. W. Morrow of this city, his son, Dr. Earl V. Morrow, who is the chief surgeon at the base hospital in Belgium, has been decorated with the Order of Leopold, by King Albert of Belgium. This honor is considered the highest that can be given by the king.

Dr. Morrow has been in the hospital service in Europe for a year, leaving Portland for the war zone a year ago this month. The base hospital contains 2,000 beds, and Dr. Morrow has about thirty-five surgeons under his charge. Dr. Morrow was reared and educated in Portland.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE FOR THE RECEIVERSHIP

The nomination of receiver of the local United States land office, which Dame Rumor had fixed for the first of the week, apparently failed to materialize. However, the faithful expect to hear of the appointment any day now.

J. Scott Taylor, recorder of New Pine Creek, has thrown his dice into the ring, as it were, and last week he wired the Oregon senators to the effect that he would accept the appointment with thanks. Some ten or twelve years ago Mr. Taylor was so far in the minority that he failed of election. He has always taken an active interest in politics, and hence is of the opinion that the senators may look with favor upon his candidacy for the receivership.—Lake County Examiner.

Wm. J. Immel is now interested with A. J. White in the Oregon Welding company, on Sixth street, and in addition to the regular welding business they will handle all kinds of machine work and automobile repairing.

Rear Admiral Austin M. Knight, president of the navy war college, told the house naval committee that new construction for the navy should be limited this year only by the country's facilities to build.

Chilcote collects rents and looks after property of all kinds. 2

New War Secretary

Newton D. Baker

Newton D. Baker, former mayor of Cleveland and chief lieutenant of the late Tom L. Johnson, who has succeeded Lindley M. Garrison as secretary of war. He is a graduate of John Hopkins University. He always carries one of the old Latin or Greek classics in his pocket. Mr. Baker is 44 years old, and a lawyer. He was a former student under President Wilson when the latter was instructor at Johns Hopkins. He went to Cleveland from West Virginia in 1902, where he was born. He became a lieutenant of the late Tom L. Johnson at the time the latter began his fight for a 3-cent street car fare in Cleveland, and was Johnson's right hand man throughout all of his turbulent campaigns. He was elected city solicitor at the time of Johnson's first mayoralty triumph, and was re-elected four times, winning even when Johnson was finally defeated. With the passing of Johnson, Baker became the leader of the local democracy and was twice elected mayor. He declined to be a candidate for re-election last fall, and retired to practice law.

For Sheriff

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the republican nomination for the office of sheriff at the primary election. WM. C. MESSNER.

Dearest Public:

If you were awakened by the crow of a rooster or a chicken pulling your hair would you call it foul play?

Did you know that I have the crust to run for county commissioner on the republican ticket? Yes, it's true, dear.

No, I wasn't urged by my friends; I am doing this on my own hook. We are living in the best place in the West, heralded as the land of opportunity from most every state in the Union.

We have the resources, and you really have to have those to create opportunity. We must have roads, as they are as essential to us all as the food we eat. Of course, if one is dead one might need an asbestos ice box more than roads.

If I am elected to this office I am going to advocate the having and the maintaining of good roads.

We have the tourist country of the entire West, and last year we had people here from every state.

We have the fishing, the hunting, the scenery, but we haven't any roads, and this is a grave mistake. Every one should be for roads, and we all should stand for Klamath county. If I am elected, I am going to do both, and I am going to put on Hiawatha pants and step over to Medford and make them put Crater Lake right back in Klamath county, where it belongs. If they don't do it, I'll move it back myself. I'm strong.

Whiskers may be a conductor of love, but they are not a real mental asset. However, if they are, I'll let mine grow until they drag in the mud. You, my friend, if you think I am going to stand for Klamath county and you, and that I will do the right thing, I want your support. If you don't, I wouldn't have the office on a bet.

In the estimation of some I may be young, and am not serious enough, but I am paying my way as I go, and that is as good as the old ones are doing.

For those who think that age is a requisite, I will tell you my life's secret. I found a silver thread among the gold in me whiskers.

I am not going to spring a lot of useless gab on you, and am not going to make a lot of promises, as no one can foretell the future.

I want your support if you think I am right.

Moving Pictures

"The Spender, or the Fortunes of Peter," a Gold Rooster play in five parts will be seen at the Star tonight. The synopsis of the play is as follows: Peter Lobert, young, enthusiastic and tremendously brave, lets his reckless carelessness plunge him heavily into debt just once too often, and is sent away by his indignant father, to seek his fortune as best he may. Bagley, the faithful old family servant, casts home, and as a lover it doesn't take him long to gain admission to Nellie McCabe's heart. They are married, much against the wishes of Pat McCabe, who doesn't put his faith in princes, and who orders Peter, now that he has her, to take care of her. This hasn't been Peter's idea at all, but since it has come to a showdown, he tells her of his poverty, and she, though disillusioned, sticks bravely to him. Peter and Bagley get a job in McCabe's factory, unknown to McCabe. The latter has troubles with his help, who are incited to strike and riot by Jim Walsh, a walking dele-his lot with his young master. That night at the Royal Arms, Peter's favorite cafe, he tells his boon companions of his misfortune. The picture of an American heiress gives him an inspiration, and he declares his intention of going to America, masquerading as a prince, and winning the hand of the Yankee newly-rich. And so they set out—Peter and Bagley. As a prince it doesn't take Peter long to gain entrance to the McCabe gate. Here are some tremendous scenes, in which McCabe's factory is set afire, a troop of cavalry rushed to the rescue, and old McCabe saved by Peter, who keeps the mob back by holding a lighted cigar over a keg of dynamite. McCabe is dumbfounded when he learns the identity of his rescuer, but Peter explains it all when he says he simply couldn't let his baby's grandfather get hurt! There is a touching reconciliation at the end.

Jules Bois, on a Trip From France

Jules Bois

Jules Bois has brought to the United States the news that the great theatrical company of the Theater Francaise, perhaps the most famous in the world, will be permitted to come to the United States this year. The theater is controlled by the French government. The French wish to show appreciation for all Americans have done for them in the war.

MT. LAKE ITEMS

The Mt. Lake Sunday school met with the Pine Grove and Henley Sunday schools at Pine Grove yesterday, and joined in the all day service. Sunday school was held in the morning, and was followed by a picnic dinner. A large crowd was in attendance from all three Sunday schools. In the afternoon, the children spent an interesting hour with a Bible story session conducted by Rev. Morgan. Later Rev. Morgan and Rev. J. B. Griffith both addressed the older people in attendance. The meeting was unusually interesting, with a large attendance.

The Mt. Lake Improvement Association will hold a candidates' night Wednesday. A social time will follow the program, which is to be given by the candidates. Pie and coffee will be served by the Ladies Aid Society.

CLAMAN PLAYERS OPEN STAND HERE

WILL PREVENT NEW BILL EACH NIGHT THIS WEEK — MERCHANTS SHARE EXPENSE AS TREAT TO CUSTOMERS

The "Merchants' Carnival," by which customers of several local business houses are given an opportunity to witness good plays at a very low cost, opened last night at Houston's opera house, when Claman's Price She Paid company made its first appearance.

Last night's bill, a hurried staging of "The Girl From Laramie," can hardly be classed as one of the best shows ever seen here, but owing to the fact that the company's arrival last night was later than anticipated, and the fact that the scenery, costumes and other effects did not reach the opera house in time, the company, rather than disappoint the crowd, hurriedly decided to present the Western melodrama with a British setting, and to postpone the production of "The Spendthrift" until tonight.

The company will produce several late plays while here, ranging from problem plays to farce comedy. Special wardrobes and scenery are carried for these productions.
